

Invitation to The 11th International BIM Awards

Dear Sir or Madam,

On behalf of IDTM, I am pleased to inform you that The 11th International BIM Awards Conference will be held in December. The applications for the awards are now open.

In recent years, with the advancement of BIM technology, continuous improvements to systems and the emergence of new BIM application solutions have led to an increasing number of BIM users. Consequently, how to apply BIM models and related BIM information correctly and effectively has become an issue of growing concern for both enterprises and governments. Exploring BIM's applications in digital cities, the potential synergy between BIM and artificial intelligence, the integration of BIM with smart construction, and the role of BIM in sustainable development have all attracted significant attention and sparked lively discussions among experts and users worldwide.

The International BIM Awards is an annual competition dedicated to the full-scenario application of BIM technology. To date, it has been successfully held for ten consecutive years. This year's theme is: "AI Build New Horizons, Digital Intelligence Forges New Journey." We encourage entries to focus on sustainable development and artificial intelligence technologies, giving careful consideration to architectural functionality, low carbon emissions, aesthetics, sustainability, and digital applications, while also providing detailed explanations based on the specific context of each project. The International BIM Awards aim to publicly recognize project teams or enterprises that have demonstrated outstanding achievements and made exceptional contributions in innovative BIM applications, leveraging BIM knowledge to solve challenging problems, make informed decisions, manage projects effectively, enhance construction productivity, and improve operational management. Teams or enterprises honored with this award will receive the competition certificate or trophy at the IDTM International BIM Awards Ceremony in December 2026 and will become key speakers sharing their experiences at the 2026 IDTM Summit.

The organizing committee of the competition sincerely invites you to participate, the competition process and time schedule are detailed in the attachment - competition notice, and the registration deadline is 12 pm on September 30th (Wed).
